The focus of the Fall 2009 issue of Perspectives in Health Information Management is highlighting new research and features a white paper on healthcare fraud and abuse, a framework for predicting electronic health record adoption attitudes, and an exploratory study of radiology coding.

"The Fall 2009 issue of Perspectives in Health Information Management is for new investigators," says editor Bill Rudman, PhD. "New investigators may find the research path difficult; however, success is in the ability to stay the course and learn innovative skills and knowledge along the way."
